Observe, Listen, Learn With Travis J. Cross

Directors are strongly encouraged to stop by rehearsals with Travis J. Cross—the rehearsal schedule can be found later in this newsletter. Scores will be available for directors to browse while listening, providing a valuable opportunity to follow along, observe rehearsal strategies, and engage deeply with the music in real time. Travis is Professor of Music and Director of Bands at UCLA, where he conducts the Wind Ensemble and leads the graduate wind conducting program. He is an internationally respected conductor, composer, and clinician who has appeared in more than 40 states and at major events, including the Midwest Clinic, Texas Music Educators Association, and the Music for All National Festival.

Beyond his impressive résumé, Travis was truly a joy to be around at the June convention—approachable, thoughtful, and inspiring. Directors who attend rehearsals will gain not only practical rehearsal insight but also meaningful professional growth and enjoyment from spending time learning alongside him.
